

Animal experimentation

- No experiments on animals are carried out to test our products, either in Switzerland or in any other country.
- Neither the raw materials we use nor our finished products are tested in other companies or organizations by means of experiments on animals.
- In our cosmetic products we use ingredients that have been commercially available for years (often decades). All of them have been approved by regulatory authorities. For such substances, known for many years, no animal experimentation is required anymore today.
- Ever since the setting up of our company, the tolerance and efficacy of our products have been tested exclusively on human volunteers, by approved clinics and dermatologists.
- Our parent company in Switzerland does not export our products to any country that requires mandatory tests on animals for cosmetics.
- Our products do not contain any extracts or components of animal origin. We use exclusively synthetic or vegetable starting materials.